Summary:

Steve is pregnant and Keith nervously points it out.

One day late in the middle of spring Keith suddenly realizes that Steve is pregnant and he promptly freaks out because that was not supposed to happen. Really none of this was supposed to happen. Keith still cannot believe Steve chooses to spend his time with him, lets him close and touch and so much more. Keith knows he is just a bump on the road to Steve's future, knows he is not the kind of alpha Steve is meant to be with, his parents have made that abundantly clear.

Author's Note:

So I have been thinking about an a/b/o au and like there is more to it but I'm desperately trying not to end up with a bunch of wips for them so have this one little scene.

I Chose You

One day late in the middle of spring Keith suddenly realizes that Steve is pregnant and he promptly freaks out because that was not supposed to happen. Really none of this was supposed to happen. Keith still cannot believe Steve choses to spend his time with him, lets him close and touch and so much more. Keith knows he is just a bump on the road to Steve's future, knows he is not the kind of alpha Steve is meant to be with, his parents have made that abundantly clear.

What are they going to do? There is no way Steve wants this with them, no matter how much pride and desire wells up in Keith at the idea of them having a baby together. His back straightens and his chest puffs out when he thinks about what they made but there is fear pressing it all down and choking him when he finally brings it to Steve's attention. He is sure Steve does not know because he is still learning all the new quirks of his new designation, no classes to take and fill him in when he presented right after high school.

"I think you're pregnant." Keith blurts eyes wide an fists clenched, tense like he is waiting for an attack feeling a lot like he did the first time Steve announced he wanted to have sex. Keith had not even realized he had been courting Steve. He was just trying to be nice at the time, driven by instinct to take care of him, help him understand and manage his designation. Had not realized he was moving through the motion of trying to woo Steve until Steve decided he was moving too slowly.

Steve pauses where he is in front of the coffee table fiddling with the table top single person game Keith got him in an attempt to gauge his interest in Dungeons and Dragons before outright asking him to play. Steve blinks up at Keith before his mouth quirks up in an amused little smile. "Yeah, almost three months now." Steve says with a little shake of his head.

Keith frowns "You knew?" Wondering how long Steve has been aware when he himself only just figured it out this morning when that lingering note that has taken up residence in Steve's scent finally clicked.

Steve bites his lip on a smile. "You've been really focused in on my stomach lately and I wasn't feeling so well so I had a suspicion and went to the doctor. Plus Karen's perfume last time she came into the store made me lose my lunch and usually I really like it. I thought for sure you knew." Steve says with nothing but fond amusement.

"You're not mad?" Keith asks, he was expecting anger or fear maybe sorrow, not Steve's happy little amused smile and the fond look in his eyes.

"Why would I be mad?" Steve asks with a frown brow furrowed up.

"Because this wasn't planned and now you're stuck with me." Keith says fretfully tugging at his hair and wishing he had grabbed a box of milk duds from work. He growls low and annoyed when Steve just laughs.

Steve's scent is a soft comforting thing though, rising up and soothing the sting of that laugh as Steve moves into his space. "Keith this isn't the eighteen hundreds, having a baby together doesn't mean I'm stuck with you." Steve says with a shake of his head and no matter how comforting his scent is Keith has a new sting of fear, afraid Steve is going to leave him.

"Stop it." Steve says softly, wrapping his arms around Keith's waist and pressing his nose in against his glands. "You smell all bitter, stop it." Steve says, nuzzling and squeezing "I'm stuck with you because I want to be, I chose you."

Keith's heart skips a beat. "You did?" He asks, tongue flicking over his lips as he lets his arms come up to wrap around Steve.

Steve pulls his face back enough that Keith can see him roll his eyes as he huffs. "You think I accept food from just any alpha or let any alpha knot me or pretty much move in with them?"

"No, of course not!" Keith hurries to say even though Steve still does not sound angry. "I just, you could have anyone."

"I don't want anyone but you. You're the only alpha for me." Steve says firmly, scent nothing but crisp and honest.

"Your parents won't like this at all." Keith says as that little flutter of hope flames to life under Steve surety that Keith is who he wants, that he chose him out of everyone else he could have had and Keith is not unaware of the other Alphas and betas that come sniffing around Steve even if Steve himself ignores them. Something that never fails to make Keith utterly pleased. How did he not see it before? He can be so dense sometimes, Steve has been showing him he chose him since this all started.

Steve hums as he presses his face back against Keith's neck "Guess you'll just have to bond with me so they can't say shit." Steve says with a smiling kiss against Keith's scent glands, it makes a spike of heat shoot through him, a little nervousness coming back in as he brings his hand up, fingers gentle as they press over Steve's glands.

"Yeah, I uh, we, we can do that if you, if you want to." Keith stutters out nervously, fingers still rubbing over Steve's glands as he thinks about them each wearing each other's mark, a thrill running through him at the idea.

"I wouldn't have mentioned it if I didn't want to." Steve says amusement heavy in his voice and scent. Keith smiles of course he would not bring it up otherwise, he has learned that Steve does not bring serious stuff up casually, he does not joke around unless he actually wants it. "Question is do you want to?"

Steve's scent has a spike of sour nerves and Keith drags his hand up Steve's neck to cup his jaw as he leans down pressing their foreheads together. "I absolutely want to bond with you." Keith says, smiling as his other hand finds Steve's stomach and the life growing inside that they have created together. He did not think it would turn out this way when he offered to help Steve after he presented but Keith is so glad that it has.

"Good." Steve's scent bursts with warmth and brightness as he smiles wide and oh so pretty making Keith's stomach go all liquid heat. "How about you and I go practice in the bedroom?" Steve asks, tipping his head up so that the last word is brushed against Keith's mouth. Keith drops his hand down to rest against Steve's scent glands as he kisses him hard, more than up for a little bonding practice.
